

Dear Colleague,

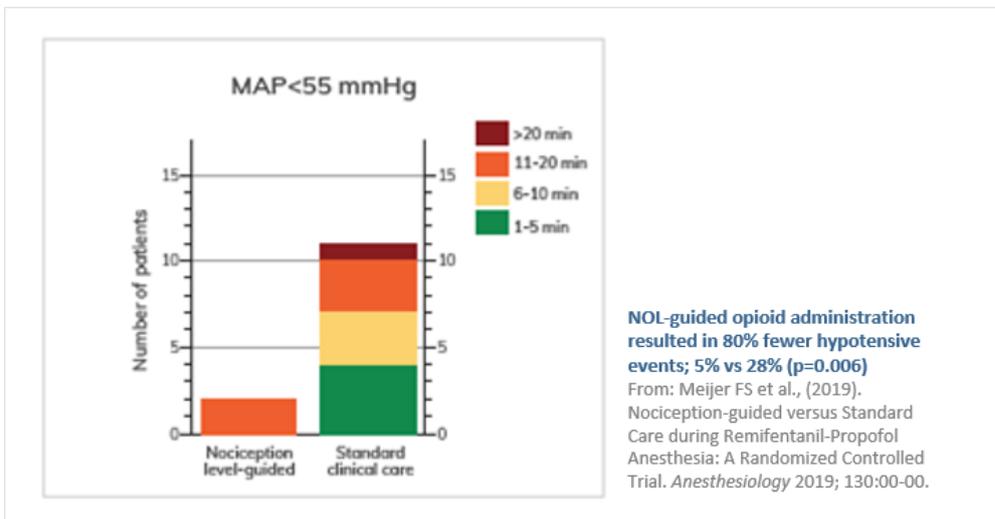

We are pleased to share with you some of our recent news and activities.

Enjoy the read!

Clinical outcomes you should know about

Anesthesiology, the official journal of the American Society of Anesthesiologists, has published results of a recent clinical outcomes study evaluating the role of NOL® monitoring in guiding opioid administration during surgery. The results are impressive, showing opioid consumption was reduced by 30% and hypotensive events by 80% in NOL-guided procedures.

Watch Prof. Albert Dahan discussing the study here.

Looking forward to seeing you in Germany!

We're exhibiting at DAC (German Anaesthesiology Congress) 2019, May 9-11. Find us at booth #67.

It takes just a moment to register for our NOL symposium, led by Prof. Matthias Grünewald, Dr. Doreen Wiedemann, Dr. Rainer Nitzschke and Dr. Thomas Kyriss.

You can also schedule a one-on-one.

ESA is around the corner

We'll also be exhibiting at Euroanaesthesia 2019 on June 1-3, Vienna, and hope you'll keep us busy at booth #B-0405, where we'll be operating a brand new NOL simulation hub.

Mark your calendar with the following ESA events:

June 2nd - NOL Technology Symposium, including Prof. Dan Longrois, Prof. Stefan Schraag and Prof. Dan Sessler on our panel.

June 3rd - NOL Technology User Group Meetup

Seats are limited. Contact us to save your space / schedule a meeting.

Driven by patient outcomes

Thanks to Prof. Anil Hormis from the UK who shared this patient story with us.

Eighty-eight-year-old Mrs. Pamela Ford underwent complex revision hip replacement surgery. The NOL monitor gave confidence that the epidural was working well during the procedure and allowed an optimum level of pain relief without any adverse hemodynamic changes.
